The idea that fires, accidents and troubles come in 'bunches' is pure superstition. Anyone can prove that. Yet it is among those to whom misbaps are most likely to occur that the superstition prevails the strongest.

"A few days ago, two wrecks occurred a day or two apart upon one of the railroads running into Toledo. Trainmen did not purpose waiting for the third to come as it chose. So they deliberately caused a locomotive to be ditched, called out the wrecking crew and fest immensely relieved.
